STUDENT'S WORKSHOP NOTES
INTERNET PRIVACY

Workshop Notes

This Workshop Notes summarizes the most important information highlighted in the workshop you attended. The points below serve as a reminder to help you stay aware and informed about Internet Privacy. Don't forget to share this information with your family and friends to help them protect their privacy online. ☺

Privacy is the state of control a person can have on their information whether it is online or offline.

Internet privacy involves controlling the information that an online user reveals about themselves and determining who has access to that information.

Privacy settings are the parameters that determine others access to your account information. By controlling your settings properly, you make sure that your online privacy is protected.

Online hackers depend on many techniques to extract user information, including Internet Service Providers, Browser Cookies, Web Bugs, and Phishing Emails and websites.

Some hackers use specific programs to steal the information such as Spyware programs or Data Logging. Some even use a malicious proxy server that poses as a server protecting your identity but steals your identity instead.

On-line social networks and search engines can also be utilized by hackers to get their hands on your personal information. Some hackers even go further than that and use methods of psychologically manipulating people to reveal their personal information called Social engineering.

To protect your privacy make sure to:

- Double check before you post any information online.
- Avoid sharing real pictures on the Internet.
- Adjust your privacy settings on social networking sites to avoid unwanted attention from others.
- Avoid registering for sites which are not secure websites.
- Check the website privacy policy before providing your contact information or email address.
- Disable popup windows.
- Install reliable anti-virus software on your computer and upgrade them regularly.
- Stop clicking on advertisements and other offers which are on the web.

It helps if you maintain at least two email accounts, one for social purposes and another account for professional and educational purposes.

Make sure that the passwords you create are strong and updated on a regular basis (preferably every 3 months), always remember to sign out, and never ask a website to remember passwords.

Characteristics of a Strong P@ssw0rd are:

- It is least 8 characters—the more characters, the better.
- It is a mixture of numbers and letters both uppercase and lowercase.
- It includes at least one special character.
