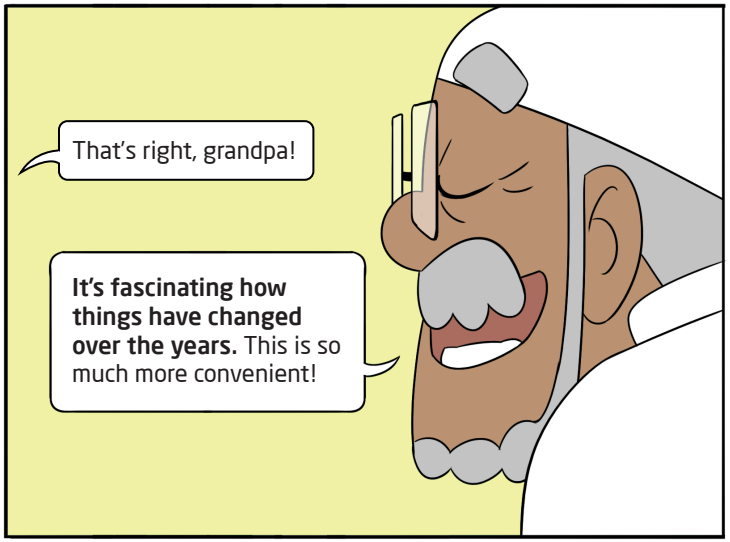
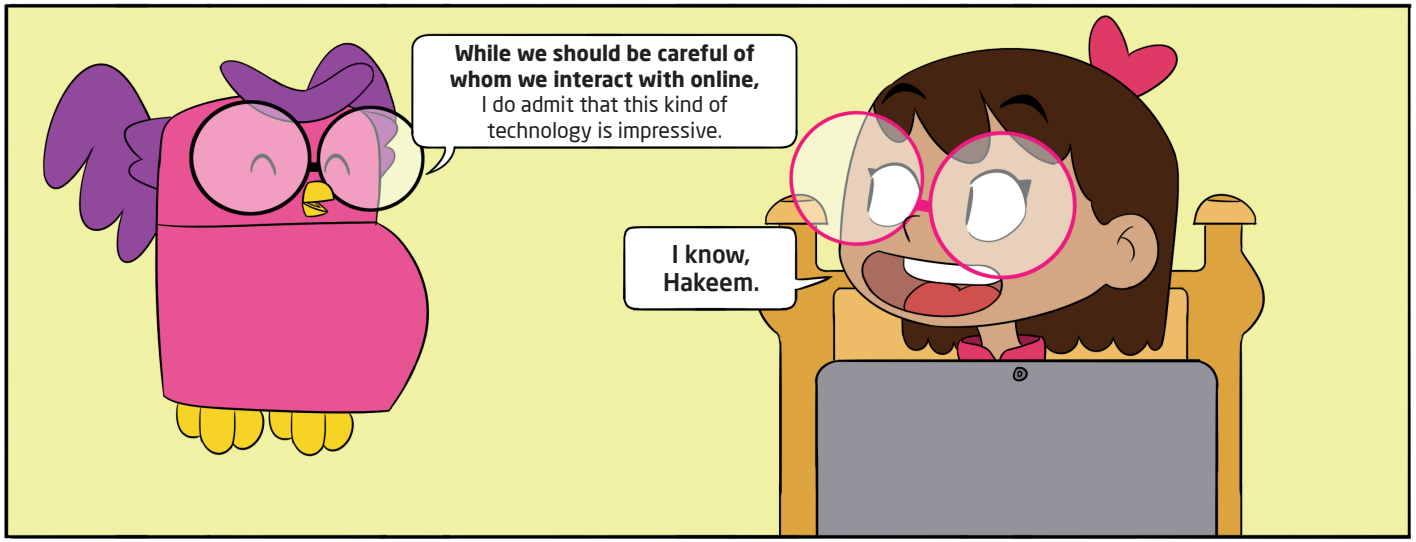
Look at all those people who know about this! Some of them already gave me a solution to my issue!
Wow! In the past, I used to be a photographer. The only way I could show my work to other photographers was by printing out the film. But nowadays, you can just post your photos on the internet when you want to share them with others.



That's right, grandpa!
It's fascinating how things have changed over the years. This is so much more convenient!



While we should be careful of whom we interact with online, I do admit that this kind of technology is impressive.
I know, Hakeem.
